

Word Choices

To expand on the word choices and vocabulary that we worked with yesterday, it is time to work on putting it into practice.

Word Choices

A letter is about to be put on the board.

Your mission is to write a short story without using that letter at all.

Your short story topic is “The Race”.

Word Choices

Now that you have shown you can write without using one specific letter, let's try again.

Your topic is still "The Race", but this time your letter is different.

Do your best to keep the story the same. This is about changing your word choices.
